

cMoe Kids Council Application

About: cMoe's Kids Council is made up of a diverse group of local children and youth who are interested in participating in their community. Their mission is to creatively and collectively share ideas and inputs about how to make the Children's Museum of Evansville the best experience for all kids and their families. As members, they lead by example and want to inspire other kids to learn through hands-on activities about making good choices for themselves, their families and the community, too.

These children are an instrumental part of the continued development of cMoe. They are responsible for offering feedback and guidance regarding the exhibits' design and functionality, programming, and participating in community outreach. These children are a valuable asset offering their interests, visions and dreams for cMoe along with the continuation of feedback on programming and outreach.

As a commitment, we request that your child participates for at least 6 months, attend monthly Kids Council meetings, and volunteer at least 8 hours per year for cMoe community outreach events.
